ABOUT AND HISTORY:

A great hunting or shooting trip is about memories – creating them in the field with your friends and family, then reliving them while relaxing around the campfire or at the lodge after a long, action-filled day. Our secluded, private lodge gives your group the setting you imagined in your dreams. Complete with modern amenities, M&M's lodge is like no other in this country. Its story dates to the 1600s.

In 1640, the original Swedish settler in this area, Anders Seneca, purchased more than 2,000 acres from Chief Obisquahassit, whose name in the Lenni-Lenape language meant "by the muddy waters." Recognized as the oldest working farm in New Jersey, this original homestead and surrounding 18 acres are still known as Obisquahassit. The lodge's foundation dates to the 1680s.

Seneca's descendants – the Sinnickson family – owned the home for more than 300 years, remodeling and updating it through the centuries. In 1875 Thomas Sinnickson Jr. restyled the home in the late Victorian manner. He and his family lived there until 1899, at which point cousins and friends began to use the farm as a hunting lodge.

In 1949, the home was extensively remodeled and brought back to its colonial appearance by Thomas Sinnickson's granddaughter and her family, who then moved in.

The Matarese family completed the latest transformation, returning the home to its former status as a shooting lodge, perfect for families, friends or business groups.

Amenities include social gathering areas such as a community TV, dart board, library, card table, Wi-Fi, BYOB bar, outside patio, fire pit and barbecue grill. To preserve the historic feel of a "hunting lodge," there are no televisions in our standard rooms.

The lodge and property is attached to the main M&M property, but has its own drive located approximately a third of a mile from the main club entrance – ensuring your privacy for you and your guest. The address is 20 Sinnickson Lane, Pennsville, N.J.
